Cost of Living, Sydney.—From the information collected each month (see Table 57) as to the retail prices in Sydney of food and groceries, it appears that in January, 1916, prices were 28·8 per cent. higher than in July, 1914, 22·8 per cent. higher than in January, 1915, and 0·9 per cent. lower than in December, 1915.

Prices were practically the same as last month's, except in the case of butter which fell 3 pence per pound, and kerosene

Land Selections.—During January, 93 applications were made for 37,055 acres under the Crown Lands Act ; and 91,169 acres, representing 197 blocks, were gazetted for residential settlement.

Meteorology.—With the exception of a few scattered places situated principally in the Riverina district, the rainfall over New South Wales during the month of January was considerably below the average. In the Metropolitan, North Coast, and Southern Tableland districts, according to station records, the largest rain deficiencies occurred ; but, notwithstanding this dryness, agricultural conditions were not unfavourable, as a series of thunderstorms over the eastern half of the State, at the end of the month, precipitated beneficial general rains, which in many instances reached large and gratifying totals.

The temperature was rather above normal during the first fortnight, but in the remaining period was cooler, and on the whole moderate.

Vital Statistics—Sydney and Suburbs—January, 1916.—The births registered numbered 1,778, equal to 27·96 per 1,000 of population ; of the total, 926 were males and 852 females. The rate is satisfactory, although slightly below the average for the previous five years.

The deaths numbered 695, namely, 385 males and 310 females, equal to a rate of 10·93 per 1,000 of population. The mortality rate is slightly above the average of the previous five years. The deaths were above the average in all-age groups, except 65 and over.

The infantile mortality was 88 per 1,000 births, being 13 per cent. above the average for January for the previous five years.

New Buildings—Metropolis.—According to returns supplied by the several Town Clerks, there were erected, in the Metropolitan area, during January, 451 new buildings.

Agricultural Statistics, 1914–15.—See Table No. 66.
